John's story began when he embarked on a cross-country challenge, running from coast to coast, spanning over 3,000 miles. This endeavor was no ordinary feat; it showcased his unwavering determination and resilience. As John raced against the clock, his journey became a symbol of hope and inspiration for many aspiring athletes.

His next step was even more audacious - to conquer the seven highest peaks across the globe. From climbing the majestic Mount Everest to tackling the treacherous slopes of K2, John demonstrated not only physical strength but also mental fortitude. The altitudes were challenging, but his spirit soared higher with each successful summit.

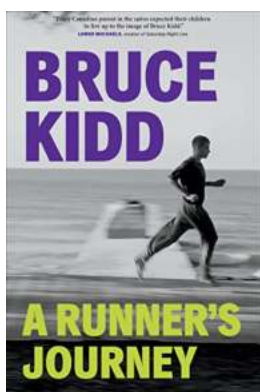

The world witnessed John's tenacity when he decided to participate in one of the most grueling ultramarathons on Earth - the Badwater 135. This race encompassed running through the scorching Death Valley, where temperatures often surpassed 120°F. Many experienced runners deemed it impossible, but not John. He pushed his body to the limit, surpassing his own expectations and setting records in the process.

The Runner Journey documentary series followed John as he ventured into uncharted territories, running across stunning landscapes that seemed to blend into the realm of fantasy. From the ancient trails of the Inca civilization to the vast African savannah, John embraced the diversity and beauty of our world through his devoted feet.

Despite achieving unparalleled success in his running career, John remains a humble and down-to-earth individual. He recognizes the importance of inspiring others to chase their dreams and uncovers the hidden potential within themselves. Through workshops and motivational speeches, he shares his experiences, offering guidance to those on their own journey.

John Graves is not just an accomplished runner, he is a symbol of unwavering determination, a beacon of hope, and an inspiration to generations. His journey reminds us that the human spirit knows no limits when fueled by passion and perseverance.

In the 1960s, Bruce Kidd was one of Canada's most celebrated athletes. As a teenager, Kidd won races all over the globe, participated in the Olympics, and started a revolution in distance running and a revival in Canadian track and field. He quickly became a symbol of Canadian youth and the subject of endless media coverage.

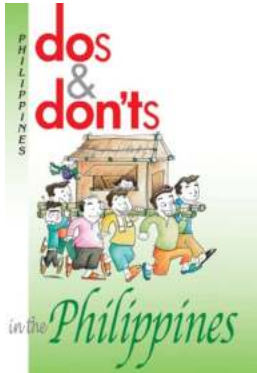

Although most athletes of his generation were cautioned to keep their opinions to themselves, Kidd took it upon himself to speak out on the problems and possibilities of Canadian sport. Encouraged by his parents and teammates, Kidd criticized the racism and sexism of amateur sport in Canada, the treatment of players in the National Hockey League, American control of the Canadian Football League, and the uneven coverage of sports by the media – and he continues to fight for equity to this day. After retiring from his career as an athlete, Kidd became a well-known advocate for gender and racial justice and an academic leader at the University of Toronto.

Depicting a Canadian sport legend's journey of joy, discovery, and activism, this memoir bears witness to the remarkable changes Bruce Kidd has lived through in more than seventy years of participation in Canadian and international sports.
