He hiked through the otherworldly landscapes of Landmannalaugar, soaked in the soothing geothermal waters of the Blue Lagoon, and witnessed the awe-inspiring beauty of the Northern Lights dancing in the night sky.

Lost in the Mystic Streets of Marrakech, Morocco

From the icy terrain of Iceland, John's journey took him to the vibrant streets of Marrakech in Morocco. As he ventured into the narrow alleyways of the medina, John found himself immersed in a whirlwind of colors, sounds, and exotic scents.

He explored the bustling Souks, where local vendors sold intriguing spices, intricate handmade crafts, and exotic textiles. John also visited the majestic Bahia Palace, adorned with stunning mosaics and enchanting gardens. In the evenings, he savored traditional Moroccan cuisine under the starlit sky in lively rooftop restaurants.

The Serenity of Ubud, Bali

John's expedition continued to the tranquil paradise of Bali in Indonesia. In the heart of this tropical wonderland, he discovered Ubud, a haven for art, spirituality, and rejuvenation.

Among lush rice terraces and ancient temples, John indulged in traditional Balinese spa treatments, practiced yoga amidst nature, and participated in traditional art workshops. He also witnessed vibrant ceremonies and festivals, immersing himself in the rich cultural heritage of the Balinese people.

Into the Heart of the Amazon Rainforest

Leaving the serene beauty of Bali behind, our intrepid traveler ventured into the depths of the Amazon rainforest. Here, John encountered an ecosystem teeming with life, where every step revealed a new wonder.

He embarked on a thrilling wildlife safari, spotting magnificent creatures like jaguars, monkeys, and colorful tropical birds. John also learned about indigenous tribes and their sustainable way of life, gaining a newfound appreciation for the harmony between humans and nature.

A Soul-Stirring Journey in the Sahara Desert

To conclude his extraordinary expedition, John set his sights on the vast expanse of the Sahara Desert in Africa. With the guidance of experienced desert nomads, he embarked on an epic camel trek across the golden dunes, where time seemed to stand still.

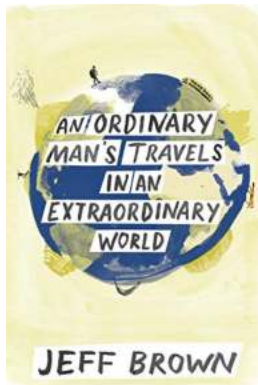

As the sun set, painting the desert sky with vibrant hues, John experienced a sense of awe and tranquility that he had never felt before. Sitting around a crackling campfire under a carpet of stars, he listened to captivating stories from the nomads, who had called this awe-inspiring desert their home for generations.

Reflections on an Extraordinary Journey

As John's journey came to an end, he realized that he had not only traveled to extraordinary destinations but had also experienced extraordinary moments within himself. Each encounter, whether with nature, culture, or people, left an indelible mark on his soul.

Through this journey, an ordinary man found his place in an extraordinary world, discovering that the real adventure lies not only in the destinations we explore but in the transformative experiences that shape our lives.

Can we do a deal? If you buy this book, to help raise money for meningitis and septicaemia research, you will be taken around the world. What do you think?

I'll take that as a maybe. For this world trip, you just need a comfortable seat and a glass of something good. We are aiming to reach every continent, but your guide is Jeff so don't blame me if he doesn't get you past Calais. Although he does promise you a disappearing hostel, wrong trains, flashing Danes, vulture assassins, lost cities, a thoroughly wrong but delightfully British sweepstake, murder on the Inca Trail, a death-defying comeback and so much more.

These are the seven travel diaries of Jeff Brown sewn into one book. He takes you on a journey of novice interrailing in Europe, surviving the beautiful culture shock of India, simple backpacking in Australia, exploring Peru in a group trip, seeing the wildlife of Namibia and finally on to an almost competent solo traveller in Mexico and Guatemala. Then, just when you are most comfortable, the last diary will catapult you into the land of PICU.

At the very least, read the last diary, as your life, or something even more important, may depend on it.

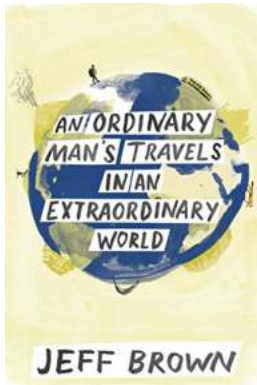

80% of the author royalties from this book are being donated to the Meningitis Research Foundation. The Meningitis Research Foundation helps to power the research, action and advocacy for a world free from meningitis and septicaemia.

Updates on the amount raised and pictures from the events in this book are on Jeff's website.
