This book has, as an objective, to remind and give tribute to all those wonderful people who, in some part of this trajectory, held me by the hand, helping me to cross the currents, without expecting anything in return, even when I had nothing to offer, except for my loyalty and my eternal gratitude.

The names of many of them are here, in an attempt to make them eternal.

Also, the journeys that I made worldwide also were happenings so very important for my personal perception of these things, as they gave me the chance, as an observer of other peoples with other cultures, of knowing them better and respecting them.

This book, in truth, in its simplest form, could be a report of an individual, during his tour in time, where it states what was witnessed or experienced and, sometimes, giving an opinion or expressing an emotion, about a certain event. Moreover, it is a simple book, without looking to change the language, where I look to report the facts, as much as I can, within their real context, due to the time in which they happened.

Summarising, the report of some facts of life, with their involvements.
