While stuck in an office in Jakarta, Eliza Allan has a lightbulb moment to embark on a horse trek along Australia's Great Dividing Range. Fast-forward to ten years later, the dream comes to fruition when she sets off to travel the length of Australia's Bicentennial National Trail with her ten-year old daughter, Zaydee.

With a horse and two donkeys for company, the girls pack their saddlebags for the 5330-kilometre adventure of a lifetime, travelling between Melbourne and Far North Queensland along old droving routes, rugged fire trails and forgotten country by-lanes.

Along the way, they tackle dehydration, leech and tick-infested areas, inclement weather, and the donkeys' persistent water-phobias. Against all odds, a solid bond between humans and equines is forged, proving that anyone with a dream can make it a reality.

A tale of endurance, facing one's fears, and compromise, Donkey Dreaming is an inspiring story of the trials and tribulations that come with life on the trail, and the heart-warming generosity of spirit of those they meet along the way.
