Early Struggles and Inner Battles

Like many artists, Paula Yoo faced numerous hardships on her path to success. Growing up in a small town where art wasn't highly valued, she constantly encountered people who belittled her talent and undermined her dreams. Yet, Paula refused to let their words define her.

From a young age, Paula found solace in sketching and painting. She poured her heart into her art, experimenting with different techniques and styles. However, she was often told she wasn't "good enough" or that pursuing a career in the arts was unrealistic.

Rising Above the Negativity

Instead of letting the negativity consume her, Paula used it as fuel to prove all her critics wrong. She embarked on a journey of self-discovery, seeking out mentors and attending workshops to hone her craft. Slowly, her skills improved, and she gained recognition among her peers.

The Turning Point

One turning point in Paula's life was when she received a scholarship to a prestigious art school. It was a validation of her talent and a chance to learn from some of the best in the industry. Paula seized this opportunity with both hands and dedicated herself to perfecting her art.

During her time at art school, Paula experimented with different mediums and explored various themes. Her work became more introspective, reflecting the struggles and triumphs she experienced along her journey. Each stroke of her brush carried the weight of her determination.

Breaking Barriers and Inspiring Others

As Paula's art gained recognition, she realized the importance of using her platform to inspire others who may be facing similar struggles. She started hosting workshops and speaking at events, sharing her story and encouraging aspiring artists to believe in themselves.

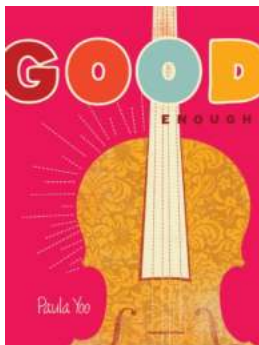

Reaping the Rewards

Today, Paula Yoo is a widely celebrated artist, with her paintings being displayed in galleries around the world. Her work captivates viewers with its raw emotion and evocative imagery. She has also published several books, combining her artistic talent with her passion for storytelling.

A Message of Encouragement

Paula Yoo's journey is a shining example of the power of perseverance and self-belief. It serves as a reminder that no dream is too big and no obstacle is insurmountable. Whether you're an aspiring artist or pursuing any other passion, Paula's story encourages us to embrace our uniqueness and push through even in the face of adversity.

Paula Yoo scores big in her hilarious debut novel about an overachiever who longs to fit in and strives to stand out. The pressure is on!

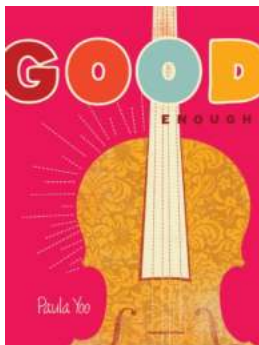

How to make your Korean parents happy:

1. Get a perfect score on the SATs.
2. Get into HarvardYalePrinceton.
3. Don't talk to boys.*

Patti's parents expect nothing less than the best from their Korean-American daughter. Everything she does affects her chances of getting into an Ivy League school. So winning assistant concertmaster in her All-State violin competition and earning less than 2300 on her SATs is simply not good enough.

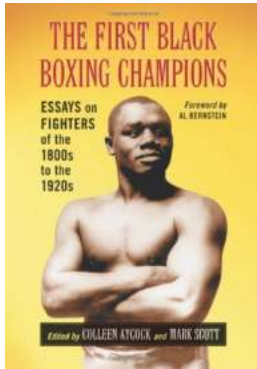

But Patti's discovering that there's more to life than the Ivy League. To start with, there's Cute Trumpet Guy. He's funny, he's talented, and he looks exactly like the lead singer of Patti's favorite band. Then, of course, there's her love of the violin. Not to mention cool rock concerts. And anyway, what if Patti doesn't want to go to HarvardYalePrinceton after all?

*Boys will distract you from your studies.
