In stunned disbelief, Martha Prewitt gapes at her stepfather. He's accusing her of killing her mother? She didn't do it. "Run fast!" He sneers, nearly spitting on her. "Or I'll turn you in, and you'll hang."

Martha has only one place to run. Bart Wilson, her betrothed in Sweetwater, Arkansas. Arriving on his doorstep—half-frozen and nearly starved—she falls into his house at his feet. Bart tends to her, bringing her back to health. She knows he suspects something horrible has happened, but she remains quiet.

Until her past catches up to her. Now likely facing death by hanging, she is forced to return to the scene of the crime. Bart goes with her... But does he believe her innocence? Does anyone? Or will she face the noose like her evil stepfather threatened?
