The game can be played with a minimum of four players and can accommodate larger groups as well. Each player is assigned a character with a specific set of abilities that can be used strategically to gain an advantage or deceive others.

The gameplay is divided into rounds, with each round consisting of two phases: the Hide phase and the Seek phase. During the Hide phase, players fabricate stories, invent false identities, and weave complex webs of deception. This is where your acting and improvisation skills come into play, as you try to maintain a consistent story that aligns with your hidden objectives.

Once the Hide phase ends, the Seek phase begins. In this phase, players attempt to interrogate each other, identify inconsistencies in their stories, and ultimately unravel the truth. It is during this phase that the game reaches its climax as players desperately try to expose each other's lies while protecting their own secrets.
