This 2nd Edition has been a labor of love. I have included the endorsement of students who utilized the book, the theory papers I presented to become a Fully Certified Supervisor, now known as an ACPE Certified Educator, the new ACPE Standards and Outcome nomenclatures, the CEC Training Process Overview from the ACPE website. Some corrections to the original edition are also included to name a few additions. As a result of much prayer and work I have started two new businesses.

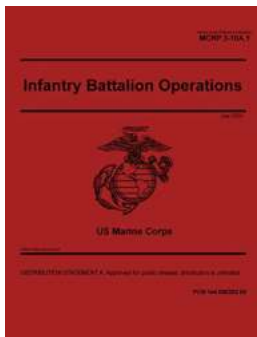

The first is CPEO, LLC to offer ACPE fully accredited online training to persons unable to attend a traditional ACPE center. Clinical Pastoral Education & Orientation, LLC (CPEO) online center is designed to establish a robust professional spiritual education center for Level I/II and certified educator training to meet the needs of faith communities utilizing an on-line format. The rationale for this online center is to provide both clinical pastoral education (CPE) certification, as well as spiritual care for pre & post COVID grief, and theological reflection education. The CPEO center is designed to meet the needs of Church leaders who may lack spiritual care, formal secondary or seminary education but have a heart for God and God's people. Or who may not be able to attend a traditional ACPE accredited center in a hospital, hospice site, prisons, or social justice community center due to work requirements. The website is www.cpeleaders.com.

The second business is The Foundation for Spiritual Liberation Empowerment & Transformation, doing business as, The Healing Center. This mission: "The Healing Center believes in the growth, personal, and professional development of those we serve. Our aim is to increase the effectiveness of psycho-spiritual care based on their values and belief systems. We are committed to supporting persons in their decision making and aspirations. We will listen to the feelings and the hearts of those seeking to improve healthy relationships with God, self, others, and nature. The Healing Center will provide virtual pastoral care that will help individuals process and acknowledge feelings using past experiences and current encounters to increase their psycho-spiritual wellness, spiritual growth, and development. Clinical approaches including best practices and therapeutic techniques from behavioral sciences that are utilized to engage pastors, ministers, leaders, and congregants. Due to the pandemic, social justice workers, administrators, doctors, nurses, social workers, and other healthcare personnel have been over taxed to care for those who have contracted the COVID virus, and grieved the loss of loved ones and not been able to process grief and the bereaved have not been able to process grief in traditional manners. The process includes emotional, holistic and spiritual wellness to promote healthy relationships with God, self, others and nature. The aim is to restore dynamics of the self to live beneficially by utilizing internal and external resources. As a result, the persons will be able to create sound goals and demonstrate outcomes centering around their values to enhance holistic and spiritual healing. A network of providers are available to offer an array of services consistent with mission and contemporary global challenges. And, finally an objective is to secure scholarships for students to acquire CPE training to meet the pastoral care needs of the global community. The website is: www.therefuahcenter.org

It is my prayer that this book and the businesses that have been created are utilized to liberate, empower, and transform those hurting in the world around us!
