Embracing the Unknown

Traveling trails less traveled is all about embracing the unknown. It's about stepping outside of your comfort zone, leaving behind the crowds, and immersing yourself in the raw beauty of untouched landscapes. This is precisely what David Voda finds so captivating.

conscious effort to minimize his impact on the delicate ecosystems he encounters. By doing so, he ensures that future generations will also have the opportunity to experience the wonders of these remote locations.

One of the joys of traveling trails less traveled is stumbling upon hidden gems. These are the places that are not mentioned in guidebooks, where tranquility and authenticity reign supreme. David Voda understands the thrill of uncovering these treasures and has made it his mission to share them with fellow adventurers.

Throughout his travels, David has discovered breathtaking waterfalls hidden deep within dense forests, picturesque villages tucked away in the mountains, and pristine beaches untouched by mass tourism. By venturing off the beaten path, he has been rewarded with experiences that most tourists can only dream of.

But it's not just the physical beauty that enthralls David Voda; it's also the unique cultures and people he encounters along the way. By embracing local customs and immersing himself in the daily lives of communities, he has gained a profound understanding and appreciation for the diversity of our world.

Inspiration for the Aspiring Adventurer

David Voda's remarkable journey serves as an inspiration to all aspiring adventurers. His story reminds us that there is a vast world out there waiting to be discovered, and that the most rewarding experiences often lie beyond the well-traveled routes.

Time stands still for no one! Plus time tends to erase or alter memories unless recorded in print or captured on a photo. Therefore, I dedicate this sampling of personal memorable moments so future generations might get a glimpse of what living in the Wisconsin Northwoods was like as viewed through the eyes of someone who dearly loved living a lifetime in a four-season paradise. Much of what this book includes has been published in the Lakeland Times, a newspaper based in Minocqua, Wisconsin. In addition to the selections I've included in this book, I've added a smattering of original poetry which I've penned over many, many years.

So, dig in... experience the wonders of living in a truly magnificent "Four Season" environment provided so tastefully and eloquently by Ma Nature for folks of all ages to enjoy!

Leon "Buckshot" Anderson has been a resident of St. Germain, Wisconsin for the past seventy-three years. He spent his early years living with his parents and a black Cocker Spaniel in a three-room log cabin at Kasomo Lake. It was here he received his basic education of "living off the land" during the crushing hard times that were a result of the lingering Great Depression.

Buckshot began a summer career guiding anglers in 1951 at age fourteen and continues in that occupation at the present. He has logged and recorded over 5000 days on the water in his daily fishing diary, and was inducted into the National Freshwater Fishing Hall of Fame in 2001 as a Legendary Guide. Buckshot is author to eight other non-fiction books, including the bestseller, 60 Years Between the Oars, and a fictional outdoor thriller trilogy
