Nestled in the heart of the enchanting Forest of Dean in Gloucestershire, Puzzlewood is a captivating woodland that instantly transports visitors to the Forbidden Forest. This ancient forest, with its twisting trails, moss-covered rocks, and overgrown vegetation, is said to be the inspiration behind the ominous forest scenes in the Harry Potter movies.

As you wander through the labyrinthine pathways of Puzzlewood, you'll be reminded of Harry, Ron, and Hermione as they embarked on their perilous adventures. Keep an eye out for any hidden Snitches among the trees and take a moment to soak in the eerie atmosphere that inspired the fantastical world of Hogwarts.

2. Lacock Abbey - The Birthplace of Quidditch

Located in Wiltshire, Lacock Abbey is a historic building that played a significant role in the creation of Quidditch, the beloved wizarding sport. Originally founded as a nunnery, this medieval abbey was transformed into Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry for several scenes in the Harry Potter films.

Not only will you be able to explore the magnificent architecture and serene gardens, but you'll also discover the very spot where legendary witches and wizards first developed the game of Quidditch. Put on your Seeker hat and be on the lookout for your very own Quaffle or Snitch hidden within the abbey's hallowed walls.

3. Freshwater West - The Coastline of Dobby's Final Resting Place

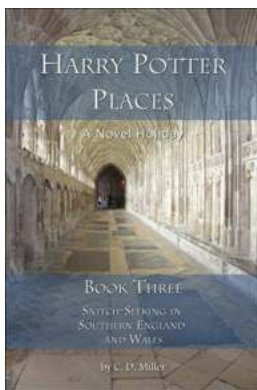

For those seeking solace in the splendor of nature, the stunning Freshwater West beach in Pembrokeshire, Wales, is a must-visit. Besides its natural beauty, this beach holds a special significance for Harry Potter fans - it is the location where Dobby the house-elf took his final breath.

You can walk along the same sandy shores where Harry and his friends bid farewell to their loyal friend. Take a moment to appreciate the power of friendship and bravery as you gaze at the crashing waves against the rocky cliffs. Who knows, you might even stumble upon a hidden Snitch washed ashore, waiting to be discovered.

While the well-known Harry Potter locations have always captivated fans, there is an undeniable charm in exploring the lesser-known places that played a role in the creation of this magical world. Puzzlewood, Lacock Abbey, and Freshwater West offer Potterheads the opportunity to immerse themselves in the enchantment of the Harry Potter universe, away from the usual tourist crowds.

So, pack your bags, grab your wand, and set off on a spellbinding adventure to these Snitch-seeking sites in Southern England and Wales. Get ready to experience the magic that inspired J.K. Rowling's incredible imagination and uncover hidden secrets that will forever bring you closer to the wizarding world of Harry Potter!

Welcome to the A Novel Holiday travel guidebook, Harry Potter Places Book Three--Snitch-Seeking in Southern England and Wales, the third of five guidebooks designed to help Harry Potter Fans (Potterites) visit places found in the United Kingdom of Great Britain (the UK) that are associated with the Harry Potter Universe (the Potterverse). In the Potterverse, you'll find:

- * Real-life places mentioned within J.K. Rowling's Harry Potter novels.
- * Real-life locations where Harry Potter movie filming took place.
- * Real-life sites that significantly influenced Harry Potter movie studio set design.

Visit the Harry Potter Places website to learn more about Harry Potter Places travel guidebooks, access the FREE Potterite UK Travel Supplementums we've posted, and see the Table of Contents for all five Harry Potter Places travel guidebooks.

HarryPotterPlaces.com

Harry Potter Places Book Three includes twelve UK Potter Places that can be found west of London.

The first Snitch-Seeking site, Picket Post Close in Martins Heron (Site #24)-- aka the Dursley's #4 Privet Drive home--is a Great Site Side-Along Apparation from Harry Potter Places Book One, repeated here for Potterites who are driving to Potter Places outside of London. This entry includes information not found in Book One, such as local lodging options and SatNav/GPS driving coordinates.

Two Snitch-Seeking Sites Each Deserve a Double-Great-Site Rating!

Gloucester Cathedral (Site #39) and Lacock Village & Abbey (Site #40) are loaded with recognizable Harry Potter film sites. Armed with HPP Book Three, you'll not miss a single screenshot reproduction opportunity in either of these marvelous locations, and you'll learn how to debunk several popularly-promoted myths about Lacock Abbey filming.

While the Forest of Dean (Site #37) isn't much of a film site, it's a Potterly Important Place.

Rowling frequently wandered through this forest when she lived in the village of Tutshill (see Site #41). Thus it comes as no surprise that one of the most important Deathly Hallows camping locations--all of Chapter 19: The Silver Doe--is set within the Forest of Dean.

Snitch-Seeking Chapter 13--J.K. Rowling Childhood Haunts & Severn Bridge (Site #41)--is a collection of places in England and Wales associated with JKR's pre-Potter life, such as her once-Unplottable birthplace (we found it!), her childhood homes and schools. A very brief Deathly Hallows Part One film site found beneath a bridge that connects England with Wales is also included. Why? Because that bridge lies on the route between two JKR Childhood Haunts areas. Site #41's chapter contains a whopping 11 Snitch-Seeking locations, but this collection counts as only one of the sixty-eight UK Potter Places.

Going to Snitch-Seeking Sites in Southern England and Wales: Our Snitch-Seeking Site Entries provide all the information needed to make your holiday itinerary decisions and plot your course to the Harry Potter Places you plan to visit.

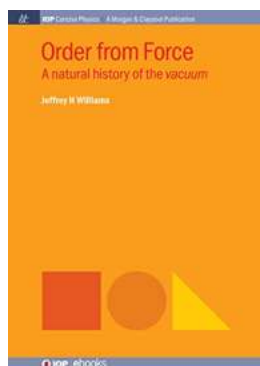

This is the ONLY travel guidebook you'll need to purchase in order to plan and enjoy the most Potterly perfect Southern England and Wales visit! No other single source on the planet--no Internet website or previously published guidebook--provides as much Potterly important information in one place.

Even if you're not yet ready to embark upon a UK Potter trip, each of the Harry Potter Places travel guidebooks are FUN to read! Nowhere else will you find so much interesting information about each and every individual Potter Place.
